

The book entitled "Recent Developments and Innovations in Historical studies and researches" incorporating seven essays on Madurai region from past to Modern period. All the seven essays are original research papers based on primary and secondary data. These essays focus on Rural tourism, Social and economic history, ICT development, Environmental history, Contemporary history and tribal studies along with tourism development. This book gives recent trend on development of historical research; the empirical findings in the relationship between sustainable development that led to rural tourism impact on environment as well as environmental awareness and attitude towards the conservation. For the history major, it provides a new focus on rural tourism, social changes and challenges towards Sustainability. This book is useful and gives valuable information for research scholar, undergraduate and postgraduate students.

Poornima Sethupathi

Dr. B. Poornimasethupathi, is an Assistant Professor of History, Fatima college (Autonomous), Madurai, where she teaches courses and guides research in the field of History. Her publications in the areas of Environmental history and Modern history are numerous. Her areas of specialization include subaltern studies, current historical and Tourism.

Recent Developments and Innovation in Historical studies and Research

LAP LAMBERT
Academic Publishing