Title : International Symposium on Recent Trends in Microbiology

Date : 24.01.2020

Resource Persons : Dr. Hal Jones, Ph.D., Microbiology

Ms. Tanya Bray, Psychiatrist

Ms. Jodi Scott, Registered Nurse, Master of Science in Nursing, Certified Nurse, Midwife

Ms. Sophie Day

Ms. Kristin Day

Ms. Caroline Henderson

No. of Participants : 170

Focus on : Entrepreneurship & Skill Development

Outcome :

- The Students gained knowledge about the recent trends in Microbiology which would immensely increase their opportunities to do get job and to do research.
- They learnt about stress management among the adolescents from an American's point of view
- The sharing about culture, food patterns and various life styles was very useful

Report:

An International Symposium on Recent Trends in Microbiology was conducted on 24.01.2020 by the Research Centre of Home Science, Fatima College. All the under graduate and post graduate students of around 170 and staff members of Home Science department participated in the Symposium.

The symposium started with a prayer song, welcome address and introduction of the special guests - Dr. Hal Jones, Ph.D., Microbiology, Ms. Tanya Bray, Psychiatrist, Ms. Jodi Scott, Registered Nurse, Master of Science in Nursing, Certified Nurse Midwife, Ms. Sophie Day & Ms. Kristin Day and Ms. Caroline Henderson from U.S.A.

Dr. Hal Jones highlighted his work as a research scientist with expertise in Microbiology and Molecular Biology. His inputs on infectious disease and drug delivery were very useful. Professional experience includes both the small biotech as well as large pharmaceutical research environments. Strength includes target identification, assay development and reduction practice for screening as well as writing for publication and the regulated environment.

Ms. Tanya Bray, shared her expertise as a psychiatrist, and spoke on stress management among the adolescents. Ms. Sophie Day, Ms. Kristin Day and Caroline Henderson were actively involved in the interactive session. The students put forth questions and the American guests answered them patiently and enthusiastically. There was interesting sharing of information about culture, food patterns and various life styles between the American Resource persons and the Indian audience. The symposium had a tremendous impact on the students as it was an eye-opening session for many students.
